November is National Military Family Month

Military Family Month was established in 1996 by the Armed Services YMCA, with the U.S. Government recognizing the occasion every year since. Each November, the President signs a proclamation declaring November Military Family Month, and with hundreds of thousands of service members deployed overseas, recognizing the daily sacrifices made by active duty, Guard, and Reserve military families has never been more important.

White House declares all of November as Veterans and Military Families month

By: Leo Shane III, Military Times

As he has for each of the last two years, President Donald Trump issued a proclamation declaring all of November as a month to honor American veterans and military families in an effort to extend traditional Veterans Day celebrations.

In the message, Trump urged communities to “honor the service, sacrifices, and contributions of veterans and military families for what they have done and for what they do every day to support our great nation.”

Veterans Affairs officials have events scheduled throughout the month to highlight military and veterans issues. Trump is also expected to take part in events to honor veterans on Nov. 11.

Below is the text of the president’s proclamation:

The United States is a beacon of hope, freedom, and opportunity to people around the world. The Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen who fight to defend our liberty embody courage, patriotism, and loyalty. These patriots safeguard the values that keep our great Nation strong.

During National Veterans and Military Families Month, we honor and express our deep appreciation for these brave men and women and their families.

Throughout our nation’s history, our military men and women have boldly answered the call of duty to defend our nation’s independence and precious liberties, risking life and limb for their fellow Americans. At the inception of our Republic, General George Washington and his men struggled to keep the spark of faith and hope alive through the scourge of disease and the brutal winter months at Valley Forge.

One hundred and forty years later during World War I, American service members shed blood in the trenches of Western Europe, leaving a legacy of heroism and courage under fire at places like Belleau Wood and the River Somme.

Earlier this year, we commemorated the 75th anniversary of D-Day, when thousands of American heroes charged through a hail of machine gun fire and left their gallant mark on the pages of history. The courage of our men and women who served and fought during that war freed the world from the shroud of tyranny and ended the oppression of millions across the globe.

In the decades since World War II, Americans have remained at the vanguard in defending freedom around the world, and our service members, veterans and their families continue to spearhead this noble undertaking.

America's military men and women and their families are vital to the security and prosperity of our nation. We have a responsibility to protect and serve those who have made countless sacrifices for love of country.

As President Lincoln once said: “Honor to the soldier and sailor everywhere, who bravely bears his country's cause. Honor, also, to the citizen who cares for his brother in the field and serves, as best he can, the same cause.”

We also recognize the integral role our more than 2.6 million military family members play in supporting our Armed Forces and contributing to their mission. While our military men and women are serving at home or overseas, it is our duty to provide their families with the resources they need to thrive in our communities.

Accordingly, under my Administration, the Department of Defense has created programs for military families that support access to quality childcare and spousal employment and promote occupational licensure reciprocity between States.

We also recognize that our obligation to our military men and women does not end after their time in uniform. We are a nation that leaves no American behind, and that includes our veterans and their family members.
For this reason, I was pleased to sign into law the VA MISSION Act of 2018, which helps provide all veterans with access to trusted, high-quality healthcare. I have also made it a top priority of my Administration to address the tragedy of veteran suicide, establishing the President’s Roadmap to Empower Veterans and End a National Tragedy of Suicide (PREVENTS).

The PREVENTS initiative will encourage a better understanding of veteran suicide and work across all levels of government and the private sector to implement strategies that will strengthen support networks for veterans and their families.

My Administration remains committed to providing our veterans and their families with the financial resources they have rightfully earned. Last year, we secured $201.1 billion in funding for the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) — the most in the history of the VA — including $8.6 billion to support mental health services for veterans.

Additionally, I recently directed the Department of Education to discharge some types of Federal student loans owed by totally and permanently disabled veterans. This unprecedented action lessens the financial burden for our seriously wounded warriors who have sacrificed so much for our country, and it underscores the appreciation and undying loyalty of the American people.

Each warrior who fights for our nation, along with their families, has earned our eternal gratitude, and I ask that all Americans thank and support them. Together, we remain committed to fostering a national community of support for these brave heroes and their families.

New M-Day Retirement Event Crossroads 2019

SMFS has very Exciting News! We are rolling out a new program to better inform our retirees and those about to retire about the benefits and requirements of retirement. You may asking yourself, "Does this really apply to me?" Here are a few questions you can use to determine if it does.

1. Are you a retired Guardsman / Reservists?
2. Are you a Guardsman approaching retirement (i.e. have achieved 15 or more years of service)?
3. Are you a family member of a retired Guardsman or a Guardsman who is about to retire?

If you could answer yes to any of these three questions, then this event is applicable to you!

Details of SDNG Crossroads events:

Who: Any retired or about to retire (as outlined above) Reserve Component Service Member or their family member.

Where: Camp Rapid, Bldg. 802 Theater

When: November 16th. For Currently serving, the event will begin at 0800 and for retirees, the event will begin at 1230.

What: SMFS will begin hosting quarterly events (Future dates are TBD) around the state to help folks prepare for, transition to, and thrive in retirement. While it is not as long as the Active Duty Transition Assistance Program (TAP), it is similar in topics.

The day will begin with information pertinent to the Service Members preparing for retirement. This will include topics such as Reading and understanding your RPAM and Survivor Benefits Plan, Retirement election Options, Tricare (focused on Tricare retirement option selections), LOD and VA Health Care, and Military OneSource benefits.

After lunch, we will focus on topics pertaining to all (both those preparing to retire as well as those already retired) an update on the "State of the National Guard", Survivor Outreach Services update, Transition Assistance update, Tricare update for retirees, Volunteer Opportunity’s, Employment Support tools, and other benefits updates.

Why: We have three main goals.

1. To inform and/or update all participants on the benefits of retirement, how to register, and what to expect.
2. Provide a transitional services update. Allowing those who are preparing to transition (or already transitioned) put a name and a face with who to talk to about what opportunities are available.
3. Finally, offer the participants a way (Volunteer Opportunities) to stay connected to the Guard.

There is no registration required.

Military Family Month

Background
Each year in November, communities around the world observe Military Family Month. It is a time to celebrate the contributions of military families and convey to them respect and appreciation for the sacrifices they make to support their service members. Military communities typically organize special events to recognize their local military families.

Highlights
- During Military Family Month, we honor and thank military families for their sacrifices and dedication to our country.
  - They face the dangers of combat and separation during holidays and life milestones with courage and poise.
  - As part of the Family Readiness System, they strengthen the military community by volunteering as family readiness volunteers and ombudsmen, providing support to others when they need it most.
  - They serve as a beacon of hope for those who have been wounded in service, supporting their journey to recovery.
  - They bravely cope with the loss of troops who have made the ultimate sacrifice and keep their memory alive.
- During Military Family Month, we acknowledge our collective responsibility to honor and support the family members of military personnel, who also serve.
- We owe each day of security and freedom that we enjoy to the members of our armed forces, veterans, the fallen and their families.
- As we approach the season of gratitude, consider ways that you can honor and thank the military families in your community.
